

Watersports are high on this yacht's agenda with her arsenal of tenders and toys

Built by Proteksan-Turquoise, the newly delivered Sequel P probably represents the highest quality charter yacht ever to be built in Turkey.

This attractive yacht features the big deck spaces that charterers favour, with plenty of areas for alfresco dining as well as a spa pool, bar and barbecue. Her layout offers a large VIP cabin forward on the main deck adjacent to the master, which can be used as a full office or a massage room. Two large doubles and two twins with additional Pullman berths are found on the lower deck, thus providing sufficiently flexible accommodation to suit the needs of both family and corporate charter. The floor plan of the yacht, developed over a long line of similar vessels, incorporates a large stern garage that keeps the guest decks free from tenders and water toys, while the full beam bridge deck lounge provides the extra volume that permits a dedicated gymnasium. Add to this the very agreeable contemporary decorative style designed by interior designers H2, and this yacht seems to tick all the boxes.

Twelve crew, led by the American/Antiguan captain Joe Hutchens, includes five interior staff, among whom are a massage therapist and the chef, James Jacobs from England, whose cooking career has encompassed ski resorts, private villas, hotels, quality restaurants and some of the world's largest yachts. He recently celebrated his arrival on Sequel P with a first place in the Antigua Charter Show's Concours de Chef competition, a win which demonstrated his innovative approach to Antiguan cuisine.

Watersports are high on this yacht's agenda, as is demonstrated by her arsenal of tenders and toys that include a towed 11 metre Intrepid tender and a 6 metre SeaDoo tender, two incredibly fast SeaDoo RXT-X 255hp three-man jet skis and a pair of Laser 1 sailing dinghies. Two kayaks, a windsurfer, together with fishing and snorkelling gear and a host of towed equipment, complete a line up for which the well qualified deck crew can provide instruction. Two qualified RYA instructors on board are able to issue personal watercraft certificates.

V-Sat and Fleet 55 ensure reliable communications and WiFi-base email, while the on-board entertainment systems include Sea-Tel satellite television and multiple iPod stations. Brand new and raring to go, Sequel P is sure to make a dramatic impact on the charter scene.
